

Sylvia Henderson is Founder and CEO of Springboard Training, LLC. Her career spans more than 30 years through corporate training & development, client services, and management roles practicing the leadership, communication, and motivational skills she presents in her programs. She works in and with major technology companies, government agencies, small businesses, associations, non-profits, and educational organizations; serves on nonprofit Boards of Directors; and is Past-President of both national and professional associations. As an Interpersonal Skills Expert, Sylvia helps you show you are as great as you say you are.

Individuals and organizations who want their "people images" (interpersonal skills) to match—or exceed—their organizational images work with Springboard Training to increase their bottom lines, gain more clients or members, and achieve higher levels of personal & professional success. Sylvia facilitates workshops & training programs, keynotes, develops educational tools, and produces program-related materials based on the most appropriate solutions for your staff and personal development needs.

Principles of adult learning are integrated into programs that actively engage participants in the learning process. Training aids and experiential techniques generate interest and emphasize, retain, & apply key concepts. Sylvia weaves her avocation as a motorcyclist into analogies and metaphors tied to business messages.

"Your springboard to personal and professional development!"
